Description

TwelveSec is an information security firm, specialising in assurance, compliance and ISMS services. Our expertise lies in penetration testing, vulnerability assessment, ISMS development, application architecture review, whitebox web application security assessment and risk assessment, as well as security studies. TwelveSec has one of the most experienced penetration testing teams in Greece and the Balkan countries, while our network of associates extends across three regions: Europe, North America and the Middle East. Our team is comprised of veteran security specialists, who have extensive experience in the field and have implemented a large number of ICT security projects. Having identified the needs and requirements of an industry driven by innovation and cutting-edge technology, TwelveSec was founded to address these needs and establish itself as one of the leading companies in the sector.
